SUMMARY.

Ninety-two colleges (about 60 per cent) enforce the one-year rule. Of these 31 enforce the rule in modified form, debarring only those who have represented on an athletic team the college they first attended, and 4 administer the rule only for a half year. Forty-two colleges out of 155 (about 27 per cent) enforce the freshman rule, 11 enforcing the rule for a half year only, one for nine weeks, one for one month, and two in the case of conditioned freshmen only. Ninety-one out of 150 colleges (more than 60 per cent) debar graduate students from their teams. Forty-eight out of 106 colleges (less than 50 per cent) debar students in professional schools. Fifty-one out of 134 colleges (less than 40 per cent) debar special students.

II. TRAINING.

1. Do you have a training table for football? Baseball? Track? Rowing? Any other sports?

	Football.	Baseball.	Track.	Rowing.
District 1.....	14	5	10	2
District 2.....	17	3	7	3
District 3.....	8	0	2	1
District 4.....	8	4	3	0
District 5.....	5	2	3	0
District 6.....	1	2	1	0
District 7.....	3	1	1	0
District 8.....	9	0	3	0

Training tables in other sports are reported as follows: Lacrosse, cross-country and hockey (for a limited time) at Harvard; lacrosse at Swarthmore; hockey at Amherst and Massachusetts

Agricultural College; wrestling at Pennsylvania State; basket ball at Washington and Lee (at times), Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Adrian, Notre Dame, Austin.

2. What price is paid for training table board? What proportion of this do the athletes pay?

District 1.....	From $4.00 to $12.00 per week.
District 2.....	From $3.00 to $10.00 per week.
District 3.....	From $3.50 to $ 5.00 per week.
District 4.....	From $3.25 to $ 7.50 per week.
District 5.....	About $3.00 per week.
District 6.....	From $2.75 to $ 3.50 per week.
District 7.....	From $4.50 to $ 5.50 per week.
District 8.....	From $4.00 to $ 8.00 per week.

The proportion paid by athletes varies from one half to the full cost. In many cases the athletes pay the difference between the regular price of their board and the board charged at the training table.

3. If you have abolished the training table, state results.

All but three colleges report good results. These three are as follows:

Northwestern: "There is a general feeling among athletes and coaches that with training tables we would have stronger teams."
University of Kansas: A professor reports, "No results from abolition except in the minds of the students." The director of athletics, "Athletes do not get enough food of the right kind."
Ohio Wesleyan: One report says, "There seems some need of its re-establishment." Another, "Cannot say. Very difficult to determine."

On the other hand, twenty-two colleges report that they have given up the training table system and with good results. Typical opinions may be quoted:

Ohio State: The director says, "Better and more normal conditions of sport; physical condition just as good as before."
Indiana University: The director says, "The training table was first prohibited, then allowed by the Conference. Since we gave it up, we have not returned to it, and no one seems to think of doing so."
University of Nebraska: "Excellent, both as regards physical condition and morale."
State University of Iowa: "No material falling off in efficiency and much less professional spirit in the air."
Washington University: "Get along just as well without it. Now no demand for it."
Tufts: "Training table tried in football once; did not warrant expense."
Washington College: "Have not found it does any good except in football."
Georgetown College: "None for several years. No difficulty in securing same results in what we believe is a better way."

Western Reserve: "We get along perfectly well without it."
 University of Illinois: The director of athletics says, "Teams are in just as good condition as when we had the training table. In my opinion, it is a nuisance and of no value whatever."
 University of Wisconsin: "Training table abolished in 1906 and with it all difficulties and evils that are supposed to attach to it. No real loss that cannot be repaired in other ways."
 University of Washington: "No desire to return to the system. It made too much of a business of preparing athletes, and might have led to dishonesty in connection with the price of board. It set athletes apart from students and gave them the feeling that they should have the best of everything."
 Willamette University: "No difference apparent."

4. How strictly are you able to enforce training rules, e.g., as regards smoking and drinking?

Fifteen colleges report that they enforce the rules "absolutely"; 31, "strictly"; 17, "fairly"; 4, "not very well"; 2, "as much as possible"; 1, "not as strictly as we wish"; 2, "cannot enforce them"; 1, "do not know"; 12 report that they succeed in enforcing the rule against drinking, but are doubtful about the rule against smoking; 1 reports that the rule requiring the students to go to bed early is the hardest to enforce.

In some institutions there seems to be a difference of opinion. The president of one college reports that the rules are very strictly enforced, while a professor says fairly well only. In many institutions, especially in the South, the enforcement of the rules is based on the honor system, which seems to work satisfactorily in that connection. On the other hand, at Gettysburg College the athletes are obliged to take an oath that they will observe training. A pledge is exacted at West Point. At Yale the captain has the decision as to the training rules and the power of enforcing them.

III. PHYSICAL CONDITION.

1. Does your college require a physical examination of athletes? Of freshmen? Of upper classes?

	No. reporting on each question	Athletes	Freshmen	Upper Classes
